1. Crete, with selected Minoan sites (G. Bianco)
2. The western Messara plain, with major sites indicated (drawn by Thomas Boyd; after Hesperia 47 (1978):112)
3. Kommos, general site plan, after the 1984 season (G. Bianco)
4. Plan of the southern area, after the 1984 season, showing the Greek temple period structures (in dark) above the Minoan remains (G. Bianco)
5. Conjectural restored view of the western end of the road with Building J on the left and the harbour beyond. Reconstruction by J. Shaw (G. Bianco)
8. Perspective sketch of Building P's galleries, looking northeast (M.C. Shaw)
9. General plan of Hagia Triadha (after Marinatos: 1973: Figure 13)

10. General plan of Phaistos Palace (after Marinatos: 1973: Figure 12)
11. Selected comparative plans of storerooms and galleries (G. Bianco)
The Kommos site, from the south (T. Dabney)
a. Part of the east-west Minoan road next to Building J's northern facade, looking west (J. Shaw)

b. Restored perspective view of T's colonnade and court (G. Bianco)
PLATE III

a. Northern wall of P (right) with vertical chases for wooden supports (J. Shaw)

b. Detail of building in Theran fresco (after Marinatos 1974: Plate 7)
a. Fragments of imported Cypriot wares (T. Dabney)

b. Burnished Italian jug (C847) from hilltop houses (T. DeVinney)