Diastereomers C+D

Diastereomers C+D
In the image, there are two chemical structures depicted, each accompanied by a graph showing spectral data, likely IR (infrared) or NMR (nuclear magnetic resonance) spectra. The graphs display a range of intensity values across different regions of wavelengths or frequencies, indicating the absorption or resonance patterns of the compounds. The structures suggest organic or organometallic compounds, possibly involved in chemical analysis or synthesis.